

EU PROJECT "TINCOM" - ROUNDTABLE "TACKLING YOUTH EXCLUSION THROUGH SOCIAL INNOVATION"

The final Roundtable "Tackling youth exclusion through social innovation" of EU project TINCOM will take place in Brussels on next 13th September 2013 (10:00 13:00) at the Premises of Abruzzo Region in Brussels.

TINCOM (Teleinclusion Community) is a social experimentation project co-funded by the PROGRESS Programme that aims at enhancing and improving the capacity of young people (particularly those with lower education profile) to use the web as a accessible opportunity for the job search. This objective has been pursued through the innovative web platform www.tincom.eu and thanks to the participation of private and public social organizations from Italy and UK: they have been acting as social innovators for the direct benefit of their users and to exchange ideas on the thematic project forums.

The final Roundtable Tackling youth exclusion through social innovation will be the place to discuss with the relevant European stakeholders the project achievements, pointing out the role of public and private organizations as social innovators. The importance of this issue has been recently underpinned by the EU Commission ("Guide to Social Innovation", February 2013) that emphasizes the importance of social innovation for new, more efficient answers to meet growing social needs, also through the mobilization of local actors for addressing complex social challenges.

The participation in the Roundtable is free. The program is enclosed.
